O'Sullivan Creel is proud to be a Deltek partner, offering software solutions and training for government contractors.

The DCAA has changed the rules for government contractors. No longer can your systems be deemed "inadequate in part"—you're either wholly adequate or you're not. A system judged inadequate could result in payments being suspended, and who can afford that?

The Deltek ERP product for the entry level, GCS Premier, provides a framework tailor-made for the small Federal contractor while remaining flexible enough to accommodate growth. Deltek GCS Premier provides the functionality to support and enforce the internal controls government contractors require. More than 2,500 government contractors trust their internal control environments to a Deltek software solution, including 92% of the top 100. Below are some of the reasons why contractors trust Deltek:

- Compliance with DCAA, FAR and CAS.
- Fully integrated project, divisional and company accounting information delivers answers in real-time.
- Extensive reporting options provide online, real-time access to key project and financial data.
- Real-time integration ensures data integrity, maintains consistency, and provides a complete audit trail.
- Automatic generation of government reports, forms and invoices streamlines day-to-day operations.

The real-world benefit of Deltek's solutions for government contractors is that DCAA auditors see and audit the internal control environments of Deltek's GovCon clients more often than those of all other software companies combined. They understand how Deltek solutions implement internal controls. They trust those environments and as a result, Deltek clients approach their audits with confidence. Are you willing to bet the future of your company on the results of your next audit? If you have a generic accounting system supplemented by workarounds and manual processes, you may be exposed. Find out more about Deltek solutions and what they can do for you today.
